

Newsletter Name: Echo

29th June to 5th July

Introducing Echo, mStock's weekly newsletter, which will aim to give you a glimpse of what happened in the world of markets in the past week, and get you ready for the next trading week.

Echo was designed to help you run through the relevant numbers and news events that shaped the Indian markets. We hope it adds value to your trading and investing journey.

A week after Indian benchmark indices touched their 2025 highs, market cooled off a bit. There was a little uncertainty about India's interim trade deal with the US ahead of President Trump's deadline of 9th July. Vietnam inking a pact with the US, bodes well for India, but the uncertainty remains.

Foreign investors were net sellers in the Indian equities in the past week. This comes after they came in droves, which pushed the benchmark indices higher.

Benchmark Index Moves

Index	Closing Level	% Weekly Change
Nifty 50	25,461.00	-0.66%
Sensex	83,432.89	-0.41%
Bank Nifty	57,031.90	-0.70%

The benchmark indices saw sideways movement in the past week, coming close on the heels of the Nifty 50 scaling its year high. The upcoming earnings season and a possible US-India interim trade deal could be triggers for the next week.

Market Breadth: The momentum in the markets was positive last week with total gainers at 2,736 and total losers at 2,304.

Top Weekly Gainers & Losers (Nifty 100)

The top gainers and losers here give a glimpse of what went on in the broader market this week. The change in delivery volume gives you an indication of how sticky the price moves could be in the future.

Gainers
Stock Name	% weekly change	Delivery volumes in past week Vs prev month
Bosch	11.53%	1.5X
Apollo Hospitals	6.36%	1.5X
Asian Paints	5.87%	0.9X
Ambuja Cements	5.12%	0.9X
Bharat Petroleum	4.99%	0.8X

Apollo Hospitals announced a demerger of its diagnostics and digital business division Apollo HealthCo. This helped the company touch a 52-week high in the past week. Apollo has been looking for partners to invest in HealthCo for the past few years after the pandemic. Its move to list this business is expected to unlock value for investors.

There were many IPOs that were open and companies whose shares listed in the past week. Sambhv Steel Tubes shares listed on the exchanges at a premium of 34.1% to its issue price of ₹82, but the gains were trimmed as the trading week ended. The much awaited IPO of HDB Financial Services saw modest listing gains of 12.8% of its issue price of ₹740.

Another company that delivered decent listing gains to investors was Ellenbarrie Industrial Gases which started trading on the exchanges at ₹486 compared to its issue price of ₹400. The stock ended the week higher by nearly 41%.

Losers
Stock Name	% weekly change	Rise in delivery volumes in past week Vs previous month
Trent	-10.66%	0.9X

Cholamandalam Investment & Finance	-6.16%	0.6X
Swiggy	-5.37%	0.6X
Macrotech Developers	-5.09%	1.0X
Tata Consumer	-4.86%	1.1X

Trent's shares were knocked down on Friday and hit the lower circuit of 10%, day after its annual general meeting. The street is skeptical about the company's ability to continue its growth path. Many analysts cut their expectations, and their target price. As a result, Trent fell the most in three months.

Paras Defence was one of the most searched stocks ahead of its record date for its stock split on Friday, 4th June.

Year high and year low in the past week (Nifty 200)

Stocks that hit their 52-week high: HDFC Life Insurance, Solar Industries, Bharti Hexacom, Max Financial, Federal Bank, InterGlobe Aviation, Apollo Hospitals, TVS Motor, SRF, Muthoot Finance, UltraTech Cement, MRF, Page Industries, Bharat Electronics, Au Small Finance Bank, Bharti Airtel, Grasim Industries, Hyundai Motor India, L&T Finance and Aditya Birla Capital.

These four stocks - Max Healthcare, Divi's Laboratories, Glenmark Pharma, and Marico, touched their lifetime high in the past week. Max Healthcare soared to its lifetime high as the street anticipates the company's shares to be included in the Nifty 50.

Stocks that hit their 52-week low: Ola Electric

Note: Ola Electric continues to test new lows a week after a large institutional investor sold a 0.8% stake in Ola Electric. This company's Q4FY24 loss doubled compared to the same period a year ago, as the company continues to lose market share.

Stocks & Sectors in the News

- Agrochemical companies like Sharda Cropchem, PI Industries, UPL, and Bayer Cropscience posted impressive gains in the past week as the Indian monsoon's tight embrace of the sub-continent continued.

- As expectations of a good monsoon persist, agrochemical companies usually benefit from good farming activity.
 - Continuing with the same trend, agricultural product companies like LT Foods, Godrej Agrovet, Jubilant Agri and Consumer Products and Kaveri Seed posted impressive gains with gains ranging from 2%-11%.
 - Paint companies like Asian Paints, Berger Paints, Kansai Nerolac and Akzo Nobel posted impressive gains in the range of 2%-8%. This is despite an expected slowdown in the space, including margin compression, and consolidation activity with JSW Group snapping up Akzo Nobel's Indian arm that sells Dulux paints

Top Delivery-volume Movers (Nifty 500)

Why do delivery volumes matter?

Rising delivery volumes for a stock indicate that investors and traders are taking delivery of the shares of the company. In case this happens with a rise in prices, then the trend could be durable.

Similarly, falling delivery volumes show that investors and traders aren't interested in taking delivery of the stock. In case the stock price rises with a fall in delivery volumes, then the trend might not be durable.

Rising Delivery Volume (Last week vs Prev month)
Stock Name	Avg. delivery volume %	Avg. month delivery volume %	Avg. 6-month delivery volume
Jyoti CNC Automation	75.37%	70.62%	42.86%
Sundram Fasteners	83.47%	79.00%	77.16%
FSN E-Commerce (Nykaa)	63.60%	59.80%	52.31%
Bayer Cropscience	69.32%	59.51%	39.79%
Aavas Financiers	48.20%	44.86%	43.33%
Chalet Hotels	78.64%	56.91%	53.88%

Nykaa's promoters sold 2.1% stake in the company worth ₹1,213 crore which led to the delivery volumes rise by nearly 3X in the past week compared to its monthly average. On the other hand, Jyoti CNC's delivery volumes jumped by nearly 4X its monthly average in the past week. News reports suggest there were multiple block deals that went through, which led to this spike.

Falling delivery volume (Last wk vs Prev Month)
Stock Name	Avg. delivery volume %	Avg. month delivery volume %	Avg. 6-month delivery volume
Raymond	11.27%	13.07%	19.40%
Alembic Pharma	10.10%	12.58%	21.53%
Blue Dart Express	11.86%	15.15%	24.27%
Himadri Speciality	12.89%	18.46%	29.15%
Godfrey Phillips	22.91%	29.14%	18.68%
DCM Shriram	9.45%	15.89%	22.67%

Alembic Pharma's stock rose earlier in the week after it got the US FDA's approval for a generic cancer drug. Later in the week, the stock fell as it announced a $12 million acquisition of utility therapeutics business in the US. However, both these events were followed by lower delivery volumes, which indicate that the price trend is speculative.

FII vs DII

FIIs and DIIs were taking opposite bets on the Indian stock markets for the entire last week, with the former being a net seller and the latter a net buyer. This comes a week after FIIs were net buyers, showing some bearish bets in the Indian market.

	Cash (provisional)	Index Futures	Stock Futures	Index Options	Stock Options
(In ₹ crore)
FIIs	-4,447.40	-5,228.80	-3,370.80	53,554.30	-6,864.50
DIIs	8,049.40	383.00	-1,847.70	677.60	-3,045.50

Year-to-date

	Cash	Index Futures	Stock Futures	Index Options	Stock Options
(In ₹ crore)
FIIs	-1,27,364.30	-29,364.90	81,871.40	-3,65,847.20	-1,05,821.00
DIIs	3,62,716.20	-302.00	-6,363.00	11,506.40	-1,04,515.40

Note: FII F&O data is up to 3rd July and DII F&O data is available till 30th June only.

Wondering why FIIs and DIIs generally move in opposite directions?

FIIs are more impacted by global events like wars, geopolitical tensions and trade wars. Their holdings in India are impacted due to foreign exchange volatility, and any change in monetary policy or fiscal policy by central banks globally.

DIIs on the other hand are mostly concerned by what is happening in India. When you see FIIs selling shares and DIIs buying them, it's because sellers will find buyers in the market.

Forex Moves

Currency pair	Closing value	Weekly change (%)
USD/INR	85.388	0.08%
EUR/INR	100.525	-0.37%
GBP/INR	116.536	0.57%

- Indian rupee pared some of its gains at the end of the week as traders anticipate a positive outcome from the India-US negotiations on an interim trade deal.
 - Traders were not making aggressive bets as a better-than-expected jobs report in the US dampened hopes that there will be a rate cut in the US.

Global Signals

- S&P 500 and Nasdaq topped all-time highs as a strong jobs report in the US left investors cheerful. Nvidia's market capitalisation nearly touched $4 trillion, passing Microsoft to become the most valuable company in the world.
 - Stock markets in the Asia-Pacific were jittery ahead of the expiry of President's 90-day pause on 9th July, many markets like Japan and Singapore ended the week on a positive note.
 - European stocks have had a stellar first half of 2025, outperforming the US. Investors are hoping history repeats itself in July, which is considered a bullish month for stock markets in the continent.
 - The Shanghai Composite index touched its year high this week on optimism that China's reforms unleashed last September will continue to deliver economic optimism.

The Indian markets were looking for triggers after a euphoric end to last week. The new earnings season might give investors and traders some cues as to where the market is headed.

For now, there seems to be a lull engulfing Indian markets, as they wait for global cues that could move the market in either direction, like the US-India interim trade deal.
